Northern Region:
The Suwanee River area and Ocala National Forest (where fresh water boating, fishing, camping, hunting, hiking, canoeing abound) have excellent campgrounds and facilities. The St. John's River basin offers scenic beauty and excellent fishing.

Central Region:
Florida's famous citrus belt with its beautiful rolling hills and countryside will long be remembered. A tour and visit to Cape Kennedy should be on every itinerary. Lakes are plentiful throughout this region.

Southern Region:
Bass fishing is in its prime around Lake Okeechobee and the Seminole Indian Reservations are colorful. Airboat rides through the Glades are fun. A visit to the Everglades National Park will show you nature in its primitive state. The winter vegetable capital of the nation is located here. Vast sugarcane plantations are found around Lake Okeechobee. See highly technical and scientific farming operations during the winter season.

Florida Keys:
A real touch of tropical living prevails on Florida's Keys. You really go to sea and can enjoy skin diving, fishing for a variety of fish, boating and swimming, or just lie around in the sun on the "key" you choose. The John Pennekamp Coral Reef State Park is for the real explorer.
